UNPROVOKED STABBING.

John Hilery's Unexpected and Murders Assault Upon Al Smith.

Al Smith, a carpenter employed at McNalley's shop, on Market street, was stabbed in the right breast, yesterday morning, by John Hilery, foreman of the gang at work upon the Prospect-street electric line. Both men were intoxicated, and there is no apparent cause, save the liquor, for the deed. The stabbing occurred in front of the residence of Anderson Kincaid, on Willow street, where both men boarded. Smith says that Hilery, himself and one or two friends whose names he did not know were standing at the gate talking when Hilery asked him for his knife, a common two-bladed barlow knife, which he had in his hand. Smith asked, "What do you want with it?"

"Let me have it and I will show you," Hilery answered.

Smith then handed him the knife, and he raised his hand and exclaimed, "I will kill you."

With this he stabbed Smith, the blade entering a little to the right of the sternum, between the third and fourth ribs. In speaking of the affair Smith said he could think of no reason why Hilery should want to kill him. They have only known each other for one week, during which they occupied the same room at the boarding house. "As soon as he cut me I started for a room, but felt myself growing weak and the blood flowing from the cut, and I went upstairs and laid down on the bed," Hilery, when he saw what he had done, became greatly alarmed and ran for a physician. While staggering around in search of one he was arrested by patrolmen Deshong and Street for drunkenness. Afterwards, learning of the cutting, the officers changed the charge to assault and battery with intent to kill. Dr. Eap was called to attend the injured man, and after an examination of the wound gave it as his opinion that it was not serious unless septic poisoning set in.

Drew His Pistol.

Patrolmen Deshong and Street last night undertook to fight a battle on Virginia avenue near No. 3's chemical house. The darky, discovering that he was being worked in the encounter, drew a revolver with the intention of using it, but the police arrived and prevented bloodshed.

The paper before the Indianapolis Literary Club to-night will be read by Prof. A. B. Milford, of Wabash College. His subject will be "The Age of Queen Anne."

MADAME NORDICA IN TOWN

The Artist Talks Interestingly of Her Future Musical Engagements.

After Two Concerts at the World's Fair She Leaves for London--Margaret Reid on the Way--The Big Concert To-night.

MADAME NORDICA.

The Distinguished Singer's Arrival Yesterday--Her Work This Year.

Madame Lillian Nordica and her sister, Mrs. Baldwin, reached the city yesterday and were assigned apartments at the Bates.

In the afternoon the two ladies were driven to the country north of the city "to catch a breath of this delightful air" as the artist expressed it to a caller. She has a charming address and those chroniclers of musical events are decidedly careless when they comment in an offhand manner about her "good looks." She is handsome. And such elegance of taste in choosing a street gown to set off her sea shell tint complexion on a bright afternoon. The gown must have been a creation of Worth's, nothing less.

Something of a heliotrope was the prevailing shade, set off with shimmering sea-green silk. It only does Madame credit, in view of the prevailing fashionable mode, to intimate that it was a crinoline affair. In one wise an artist, in all wise an artist is an old saying, dubious in its accuracy, but it does well to recall it in speaking of Nordica, who is to sing to-night. Artistic taste in dress is quite a material matter to the concert singer, even as much as her vocal art. Madame's taste is exquisite, even to the shell, quivering combination of lead work that made a delight of a bonnet, as the feminine tongue would describe it.

"You want to know what I have been doing since I last appeared in Indianapolis?" said she in an accent that seemed to savor closely to that of our English cousins. "Oh, if I tried to tell you about that it would take me all afternoon. I have sung in a number of Eastern festivals since that time. After my Indianapolis engagement I go to Chicago, where I sing in two concerts at the world's fair, and from there I leave directly for New York to sail for London within a week. I was engaged to sing at Covent Garden on May 15, but, through the kindness of Sir Augustus Harris, I was given permission to remain in America until after singing at these world's fair concerts. I am already advertised in London to sing like in 'Lohengrin.' For next season I have signed a contract with Messrs. Abbey & Grau to sing in grand opera in America with the De Reskes, Miss Lames and the other soloists who were with the combination last year. I have also under agreement to help bring out at Chicago in the fall the new oratorio of Dr. McKenzie, 'Bethlehem.' Dr. McKenzie is of the Royal College of London."

"From what particular work have you a preference in making selections?" was asked her.

"Well," she hesitatingly replied, "that is somewhat difficult to answer. Selections from Handel are my favorites. 'The Golden Legend,' by Sir Arthur Sullivan, is a work that I delight in singing."

Madame Nordica was asked if she had ever had any dealings with Charles E. Locke. She said that she did not know him. At the rehearsal at noon to-day Mme. Nordica will sing.

TO-NIGHT'S CONCERT.

Margaret Reid Starts from New York--Full Programme--Redemption of Tickets.

Mr. L. M. Ruben, Miss Margaret Reid's manager, telegraphed to the Music Festival people yesterday, that Miss Reid left New York for this city over the New York Central at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon and would arrive in Indianapolis at noon to-day. This information indicates that, for some reason, Miss Reid canceled her engagement to go to Chicago to sing last night, although it was understood that she was on her way to that city. Miss Reid will stop with her family here, and it is thought that she will remain some time. Arrangements were made for her to rehearse her songs this afternoon preparatory to the concert at Tomlinson Hall to-night. The festival chorus will have a rehearsal at the hall at noon to-day.

The concert to-night promises much in the way of entertainment, as the programme is a varied one, including several of the principal works that were to have been given at the festival, while the soloists will be Mme. Nordica, Miss Reid, Miss Walker and Mr. Schliwen. While the advance sale of seats on Saturday was large, it did not nearly exhaust the seating capacity of the hall. Only about one-half the seats were sold, and if the remainder should be disposed of early to-day, which is probable, extra accommodations will be provided by putting in about two hundred chairs in the aisles and in the place where the temporary platform now is.

It is hoped by this concert to realize such a sum of money as to meet much of the present large indebtedness of the Festival Association and to insure the continuation of these festivals in succeeding years. The necessary expenses of such an enterprise are very large--much larger, in fact, than people generally imagine--and there is no danger of a surplus even if every seat in Tomlinson Hall should be filled to-night. On its merits as a musical entertainment the concert should be a great success, for no other concert ever given here presented such an attractive array at such low prices for seats. When the Nordica Concert Company sang here last winter the price of seats was $2.

The programme to be rendered to-night is as follows:

Car Smashes Into One of the Iron Poles and Causes a Bad Wreck.

Five or Six People Injured but None of Them Fatally Hurt--Another Accident on the Irvington Line.

Trailer No. 288, attached to an out-bound Irvington car, was derailed about 5 o'clock yesterday evening and a heavy consignment of passengers pitched unceremoniously into the street, many of those on board receiving painful bruises and injuries that may result seriously. The accident occurred a few yards west of Highland avenue and at a point where the track is not in the best condition. After it left the rails the car pitched forward and struck one of the iron poles, jamming it from its position and demolishing one end of the trailer. The cars were in charge of conductor Ives and motorman Arnold, both of whom claim they were not attempting to make extraordinary speed, but passengers assert that the cars were not traveling less than ten miles an hour.

Miss Jennie Young, of No. 1253 West Maryland street, was seated on the front seat of the trailer, and when the abrupt stop was made she pitched forward over the platform. In her effort to keep from falling from the car she was injured about the knee, and was told by a physician that her kneecap had been dislocated.

Mrs. Amanda Arnold, who resides with Miss Young, was hurt also, and complained of great pain across the chest.

John MacShule, Merchant policeman, living at No. 317 East North street, was seated in the rear, holding his infant child in his arms. His daughter Hazel sat at his side and was thrown out. She was cut slightly on the face, and her father received a severe strain in the left arm. The child was uninjured.

A young man, whose name could not be learned, was thrown out, his head striking the ground. He suffered a concussion which rendered him unconscious for some time, but finally recovered and it is thought, will not be seriously inconvenienced by the accident.

Dr. F. R. Stone, of No. 16 West Ohio street, was a passenger on the trailer, and hobbled out of the wreck with a badly bruised limb.

J. Wiley Bennett, the artist, at No. 38 East Washington street, was among the injured, and was taken to his home in a car.

His wife was also severely shaken up.

The suffering passengers were taken to the home of William Langstaff, near the scene of the accident and cared for until carriages could be ordered for them. The accident caused a blockade of the track for some time, and hundreds of people were attracted to the vicinity. Nearly every person on the trailer was jostled and bruised to some extent, and intense excitement prevailed among the passengers. No immediate cause for the trailer's jumping the track, other than the fact that the track is rough at this point, has been discovered.

Fell Under the Wheels.

James Moore, aged twenty-two years, was injured in front of Ollie Lanham's baseball resort yesterday evening by falling beneath the wheels of an electric car. After the game of ball the crowd made a rush for the first car, and Moore was among the first to catch the motor while it was yet in motion. He was unable to gain a foothold, and was pushed from the platform by others anxious to get aboard.

Moore fell between the motor and trailer in such a manner that he could not extricate himself until he had been dragged several feet. The car was stopped as quickly as possible and the young man, after considerable difficulty, was rescued from his perilous position. It was at first thought that his limbs were badly crushed, and he was brought to the transfer car and from there taken to his home, at No. 38 Vandeventer street, by Holtzman's ambulance. Dr. Marce was summoned and found that the wheels had not passed over the limbs, but had scraped considerable flesh from both. The physician believes that the injured man will recover from the accident without resorting to amputation.

Foot Caught Between Cars.

Michael Corliss, a conductor employed on the College-avenue electric line, was seriously injured at the transfer car shortly after noon yesterday. Corliss, in stepping from his car to the transfer car, slipped between the platforms, and his car being yet in motion, his ankle was caught by the wheels. The feet and ankles were jammed, and his ankle received a severe twist. He was sent to Dr. Marce's office, where his wounds were dressed, and he was then taken to his home, No. 502 East Eleventh street.
